

Addenda #1

Question:

Was just reaching out to see if it is okay that we install a controller besides the TAC32?

Answer:

The TAC32 system is provided as an example of the type and quality of equipment that meets the specifications outlined in this document. However, this is not a restrictive or exclusive reference. The contractor may propose an approved equal.

An "approved equal" is defined as any product that meets or exceeds the specified performance, quality, and technical criteria of the example provided. The contractor shall submit sufficient information to demonstrate that the proposed equal product meets the required specifications, including but not limited to:

- Quality Assurance: Evidence of compliance with industry standards or certifications
- Functionality: Assurance that the proposed product performs equivalent to or better than the example product in all relevant aspects

All approved equal products will be reviewed